

JUDGE LONGENECKER DEFENDS EMERY In Manly Letter Nails Lies About Candidate's Legislative Record.

VOTE THE WHOLE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

From Governor Down to Jury Commissioner—Emery, Black, Creasy and Green; Thropp, Koontz, Doty, Cessna and Diehl.

In a spirit of fairness Judge Longenecker has written Lewis Emery, Jr., nailing lies being circulated by the gang in the state through the campaign committee of the War Veterans' Club. The letter in full is as follows:

Bedford, Pa., October 25, 1906.

My Dear Senator:—
During my absence from home the inclosed campaign literature reached my desk, and on looking over it last evening I felt sure the charges made against you therein, of voting against the Erie Home for Disabled Soldiers and Sailors, and the other measures named, were false. I therefore got down the Legislature record and Senate Journal, and, after a short examination, found them to be wholly false, as I anticipated. I give you some references to the Journal and record, and if you think it worth while you can have the others examined. I did not know but you might feel like exposing this self-constituted and pretended set of guardians of the veterans of the state.

Voted for the Bill

On April 14, 1885, you presented petitions from your constituents of Tioga, Potter and McKean counties in favor of the Erie Hospital or Home for Disabled and Indigent Soldiers and Sailors of Pennsylvania. See legislative record, Vol. 1, page 884. The bill (Senate bill 233) provided for the establishment and maintenance of a "Home for Disabled and Indigent Soldiers and Sailors of Pennsylvania" was reached in the Senate on its final passage, May 19, 1885. The vote is given on p. 1754 of the legislative record, and you voted for it. No votes against it. See also Senate Journal, p. 733. The soldiers' burial bill also received your support, see House bill No. 10 (Senate No. 130), Senate Journal for 1885, page 606. April 29, 1885, the bill was taken up for final passage, and on page 607 the vote will be found recorded, you voting for the bill. This bill went to the Governor, who vetoed it, and when it came up for passage over the veto you were absent, but later, on your return, you requested leave to have your vote recorded for it, and Humes objected, but leave was granted and you voted for passing it over the veto. See Senate Journal, 1885, p. p. 689 to 691.

Finds All Charges False
I have not had time to investigate all the other charges, but have done so in part, and as far as I have gone find them equally false. The numbers of oills are not given, for the very good reason that it was not intended that the statements should be verified. Being untrue, it was hoped they would be accepted without looking at the record, which would expose their falsity. The records do show, however, that you supported all measures of the character named, and particularly I refer you to the one mentioned "as an act making an appropriation for the State Hospital for injured persons of the anthracite coal regions of Pennsylvania."

It was Senate bill No. 458, and the record on page 2831-3 shows that you both spoke for it and voted for it. Was Not a "Square Deal"

As "President" W. H. Redheffer and J. J. Hinds, the "chairman of the Campaign Committee," of the "War Veterans' Club," send out this literature accompanied with a portrait of President Roosevelt, they should at least accord to every candidate a "square deal" instead of trumping up a list of charges, every one of which is untrue and made out of the whole cloth, for the deliberate purpose of deceiving and misleading a class of persons who are supposed to place confidence in their alleged organization.

Doubtless half of the respectable gentlemen named on their so-called "War Veterans' Campaign Committee" have never been consulted about permitting the use of their names for the purpose, and certainly all would repudiate the use of their names as indorsers of a lot of lying charges, such as these circulars contain.

Very truly,
(Signed) J. H. Longenecker.

END OF THE BATTLE

Is Approaching and All Indications Point to a Decided

FUSION VICTORY

Reynolds Will Lose His Home Town, His Home County and the Congressional District

The State Grafters, Who Have Disgraced the Fair Name of Pennsylvania, and the Local Annex of That State Machine Are Defeated

THE ICICLE WILL MELT

The end is in sight—the end of the campaign and the end of the state machine, that combination of grafters and despoilers whose foul work has wrecked banks and driven men to premature graves, passed corrupt legislation, stolen franchises and robbed cities and the state. And with it will fall the local annex of the Penrose-Durham machine.

John M. Reynolds will again lose his home town and his home county, and unless all signs fail Joseph E. Thropp will represent this district in Congress.

The people of this county know John M. Reynolds, the renegade Democrat, the political trimmer, the man who delights to break personal promises and political pledges.

As a Democrat he villified and abused honest Republicans, and for this he will be rebuked. He betrayed not only the Democrats but the Palmer-Buckner organization, and since a Republican he has, by deception, forced himself to the front and as the leader of the gang he is today betraying Dr. W. C. Miller.

Two years ago Cambria and Blair were treacherously led to believe Reynolds to be popular at his home, but the election burst that bubble; he lost this county by 778 votes and he will lose it by 900 this year.

The deeds of his checkered political career are known; he will get his reward. His deeds have found him out; his end is near.

Hon. William H. Koontz will receive a large majority in this, Miller's home county, and the remainder of the fusion ticket will be elected by safe majorities.

The people will spurn the lying justifications by an imbecile Governor of the gigantic capitol steal. The county is aroused; the state gang is defeated; the local annex is defeated; the people are going to assert their authority and redeem both state and county.

The whole county ticket is pledged by resolutions to the state machine; Reynolds and Miller are likewise pledged. A vote for Reynolds is a vote for the gang under which he serves as local boss. A vote for Miller is a vote for Penrose, for Miller's record as a loafer at Harrisburg and as a Penrose tool is known. A vote for Oster is a vote for the machine, for he held an office at Harrisburg and they know their man; then, too, he is pledged by resolution. A vote for the gang county ticket is a vote for the gang to which they are pledged.

A vote for Bailey is a vote for Reynolds whose stool pigeon he is.

A vote for the whole Democratic or Lincoln ticket is a vote for civic righteousness which the gang opposes; a vote against the gang and the grafters is a vote for the people and for the honor of the State of Pennsylvania and the County of Bedford.

TROLLEYS AND TWO-CENT FARES

I am in favor of trolleys carrying freight and of 2-cent railroad fares. Have answered all inquiries to this effect, save, for reasons obvious, that of Marshall Williams.

JOSEPH E. THROPP.

HON. E. S. DOTY

Mr. Doty is a man of intelligence and force of character. He can frame and present bills and defend them on the floor. His record as a man and as a legislator is clean and he stands for all reforms. The trolley bill never came from committee when he was in the Legislature. He was for it and is now. He wears no collar; is bound to no boss. He is the kind of man we need at Harrisburg. Vote for him for the Legislature and we will have a clean and able Representative.

COUNTY CHAIRMAN FRANK FLETCHER

In An Open Letter to the Johnstown Journal

EXPOSES THE BAILEY MOVEMENT

His Henchmen in This County, Enfield and Horn, Depicted In True Light—Bailey Got Three Votes Here at Primary Election.

Democratic County Committee, Bedford, Pa., Oct. 30, 1906.
To the Editor of the Johnstown Journal:

I read your article of yesterday relative to Bailey's allegations that Thropp bought the Democratic Congressional nomination. I like the article and would suggest that you keep it from now until the election. Rub it into him good and hard. No Democrat of any character for truth would allege in the columns of his paper that corrupt means were used to obtain the nomination, unless he had some proof of it.

Mr. Thropp in his letter of acceptance says he did not expend one penny to obtain the nomination, and he challenges proof to the contrary. Now, if Mr. Bailey wants to be fair and honest, why don't he tell the truth and say he has no proof to the contrary, and say that what he said in regard thereto was simply the product of his distorted imagination?

He knows he lied when he said in the columns of his newspaper that the nomination was corruptly made. He knows, as everybody else knows or should know, that the statements in his paper reflecting on the character of the conferees were false.

So far as Bedford county is concerned, I know that Thropp's endorsement by the Democratic party at the primaries did not cost him a penny, not even the price of a postage stamp. He did not seek the nomination at all. The Democrats of this county demanded his nomination, and they proceeded to carry the county for him without any effort on his part.

The conferees from this county, in order to carry out the wishes of the Democratic party, and to get what the Democrats of the county demanded, attended two meetings of the conference at their own expense.

Neither the Democratic primaries, the Democratic County Convention, nor the Democratic Conference, cost Thropp one penny, and as chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and as a member of the Democratic Congressional Conference, I challenge proof to the contrary from all quarters.

I suppose Bailey will treat all such challenges with contempt and attempt to make the people believe his insane imaginings. No regard for truth or fact, but simply spurred and goaded by Reynolds' heels.

In this county he confers with Dr. Enfield, who has opposed all Democratic tickets since 1902. He voted the Republican national ticket in 1904, and for Reynolds and Republican members of the Legislature. At that election, after he had marked his ticket, he called me into the booth to show me his ticket. This to taunt me because he knew I was supporting the Democratic ticket. After showing me his ticket, marked as above, he deposited the same in the box.

Daniel S. Horn, the other supporter of Bailey in this county, has not supported a Democratic ticket since 1902. He has always been an ardent supporter of Reynolds. His vote was challenged by a Democratic watcher in 1904 on account of residence. At first his vote was rejected. Later in the day he appeared at the polls with the chairman of the Republican County Committee, who argued to the Republican election board the legality of his vote, the member of the Democratic County Committee in the ward arguing against its legality, and a Republican election board received his vote. It is useless to say how he voted. The facts speak for themselves.

Both Enfield and Horn have always been ardent supporters of Reynolds. Bailey was Reynolds' candidate. His organs have advocated his nomination. Enfield and Horn made a fight for Bailey at the Democratic primaries and he received three votes in the county. I don't anticipate that he will receive any more than that number at the election next Tuesday, and these will not be the votes of Enfield and Horn. Enfield holds the position of United States Pension Examiner here under Reynolds.

I have scribbled these few lines, thinking that they might be of service to you in your county in behalf of Thropp, the Democratic nominee for Congress. You can rely upon the absolute truth of every word I have written in this letter.

Yours truly,
Frank Fletcher,
Chairman Dem. County Com. of Bedford County.
Member of Democratic Congressional Conference.

Democrats, Remember This!

That part of our ticket was defeated last year because you did not vote.

That it is your solemn duty to exercise your high prerogative as an elector, and to go to the election and cast your vote.

That no elector has a right to complain of unequal or high taxation, or unjust legislation, or abuse of administration, if he fails to vote.

That your forefathers fought, and bled and died that you might be a freeman and be a voter.

That your neglect or failure, unless for a good reason, to exercise your rights indicates degeneracy on your part.

That you owe it to your party, to yourself, and to your sons to be an honest elector.

That your neighbor has as much right to stay away from elections as you have.

That if all good people stay away and fail to vote, bad men will soon have possession of every public office.

Do your duty, and be a Man.

Senator Miller

Can any one tell where Senator Miller stands on any political question? He has been our Senator for four years—and has been, or ought to have been, well and intimately acquainted with all legislation. Why has he not attempted to inform his people and explain his record? Because he knows his record is infamous. Even the state candidates did not and could not endorse him, when here at a public meeting; could not even mention his name nor the office he seeks. Why? Echo answers, why?

Vote for honest government by supporting Hon. E. S. Doty for Representative.

Business and Laboring Men, Attention!

Look over your business and work-books; examine them carefully; brush up the tablets of your memory, and see if you can recall whether or not the Hon. John M. Reynolds has been of any benefit to you as a Merchant, as a Mechanic, or as a Laboring man.

Where did he amass his fortune? Where did he attain reputation? Surely the people of Bedford county were instruments used by him in securing both. Where does he spend his money? Where has he invested it? Can Bedford town or Bedford people answer? Can a business or a laboring man in Bedford honestly say that he has ever been benefited by John M. Reynolds? Why then should he continue to vote for and support a man who has been only a barnacle on the bottom of the body politic—sucking the life-blood out of it, but contributing no nourishment to it. Pay him back now; encourage home and home men! Vote for your interests and do as Reynolds has done; look after your own interests.

Democrats, Lincoln Republicans, Prohibitionists, Socialists!

A vote for Bailey is a vote thrown away. Vote straight for Thropp, the people's candidate, and the workingman's friend, and the whole Democratic ticket.

George W. Oster held an appointment under the Republican "machine" at Harrisburg. The Penrose gang knows its man and can trust him. If elected, he is pledged by resolution of the county convention to support Penrose and the "gang."

Political Gall

For a renegade Democrat to ask an honest Democrat to vote for him.

If you catch a man stealing your chickens, will you invite him to dine with you?

If a man calls you vile names, abuses your confidence, stabs you in the back, and brags about it, will you aid and assist him in his business?

How then can Reynolds expect any sane and self-respecting Democrat to vote for him? It is absurd. He left the Democrats simply because the Republican party was strong, and had a large majority in the county and district. Why should he seek now the support of Democrats? Because the Republicans "have found him out," and are tired of their bargain. Reynolds is for Reynolds. Don't be deceived.

An Honest Question

Did any voter in Bedford county, during this important campaign, hear John M. Reynolds, William C. Miller, or George W. Oster utter one word against bossism, corruption and extravagance in the spending of the People's money, and the many other evils in the administration of our state government, of which all good people have complained and are complaining? No, not once. Why? Because Reynolds, Miller and Oster are friends of Senator Penrose, who is the Boss of the State Machine—and Reynolds of the County Machine.

If Reynolds' friend Washington had $3,500,000 back of him it is strange that he balked at a paltry $213,000 which Lauder says is only one-fifth of the value of the properties.

Consumption

There is no specific for consumption. Fresh air, exercise, nourishing food and Scott's Emulsion will come pretty near curing it, if there is anything to build on. Millions of people throughout the world are living and in good health on one lung.

From time immemorial the doctors prescribed cod liver oil for consumption. Of course the patient could not take it in its old form, hence it did very little good. They can take and tolerate it for a long time. There is no oil, not excepting butter, so easily digested and absorbed by the system as cod liver oil in the form of Scott's Emulsion, and that is the reason it is so helpful in consumption where its use must be continuous.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

CHAPTER XIV.
OFTEN had De Montespan feigned a faint in the days when she wished to disarm the anger of the king. But now she knew what it was to have the senses struck out of her by a word. She could not doubt the truth of what she heard. There was that in her rival's face, in her steady eye, in her quiet voice, which carried absolute conviction with it. She stood stunned for an instant, panting, her outstretched hands feeling at the air, her defiant eyes dulling and glazing. Then with a short sharp cry, the wall of one who has fought hard and yet knows that she can fight no more, her proud head drooped and she fell forward senseless.

Mme. de Montespan stooped and raised her up in her strong white arms. There were true grief and pity in her eyes as she looked down at the snow-pale face which lay against her bosom, all the bitterness and pride gone out of it and nothing left save the tear which sparkled under the dark lashes and the petulant droop of the lip, like that of a child which has wept itself to sleep. She laid her on the ottoman and placed a silken cushion under her head. Then she gathered together and put back into the open cupboard all the jewels which were scattered about the carpet. Having locked it and placed the key on a table where its owner's eye would readily fall upon it, she struck a gong which summoned the page.

"Your mistress is indisposed," said she. "Go and bring her maids to her."

And so, having done all that lay with her to do, she turned away from the great silent room where, amid the velvet and the gliding, her beautiful rival lay like a crushed flower, helpless and hopeless.

Helpless enough, for what could she do? And hopeless, too, for how could fortune aid her? The instant that her senses had come back to her she had sent away her waiting women and lay with clasped hands and a drawn face planning out her own weary future. She must go, that was certain. Her spirit was broken at last. She must accept defeat, and she must go.

She rose from the couch feeling that she had aged ten years in an hour. There was much to be done and little time in which to do it. She had cast down her jewels when the king had spoken as though they would atone for the loss of his love. But now that the love was gone there was no reason why the jewels should be lost too. If she had ceased to be the most powerful, she might still be the richest woman in France. There was her pension, of course. That would be a magnificent one, for Louis was always generous. And then there was all the spoil which she had collected during these long years, the jewels, the pearls, the gold, the vases, the pictures, the crucifixes, the watches, the trinkets—together they represented many millions of livres. With her own hands she packed away the most precious and portable of them, while she arranged with her brother for the safe keeping of the others. By evening all was ready, and she had arranged that her property should be sent after her to Petit Bourg, to which castle she intended to retire.

It wanted half an hour of the time fixed for her departure when a young cavalier whose face was strange to her was ushered into her room.

He came with a message from her brother.

"M. de Vivonne regrets, madame, that the rumor of your departure has got abroad among the court."

"What do I care for that, monsieur?" she retorted.

"He says, madame, that the courtiers may assemble at the west gate to see you go; that Mme. de Neuilly will be there, and the Duchesse de Chambord and—"

The lady shrank with horror at the thought of such an ordeal. To drive away from the palace where she had been more than queen under the scornful eyes and bitter gibes of personal enemies!

"Tell my brother, monsieur, that I should be obliged if he would make fresh arrangements."

"He bade me say that he had done so, madame."

"Ah! At what hour, then?"

"Now. As soon as possible."

"I am ready. At the west gate, then?"

"No. At the east. The carriage waits."

"And where is my brother?"

"We are to pick him up at the park gate. He is watched, and were he seen beside the carriage all would be known."

"Very good. Then, monsieur, if you will take my cloak and this casket we may start at once."

They made their way by a circuitous route through the less used corridors she hurrying on like a guilty creature, a hood drawn over her face and her heart in a flutter at every stray footfall. But fortune stood her friend. She met no one and soon found herself at the eastern postern gate. A couple of phlegmatic Swiss guardsmen leaned upon their muskets upon either side, and the lamp above shone upon the carriage which awaited her. The door was open, and a tall cavalier swathed in a black cloak handed her into it. He then took the seat opposite to her, slammed the door, and the caleche rattled away down the main drive.

It had not surprised her that this man should join her inside the coach, for it was usual to have a guard there, and he was doubtless taking the place which her brother would afterward occupy. That was all natural enough. But when ten minutes passed by and he had neither moved nor spoken she peered at him through the gloom with some curiosity. At last the silence impressed her with a vague uneasiness. It was time to bring it to an end.

A thrill ran through her nerves. Who or what could he be, this silent man? Then suddenly it struck her that he might be dumb.

"Perhaps monsieur is afflicted," she said. "Perhaps monsieur cannot speak. If that be the cause of your silence, will you raise your hand, and I shall understand." He sat rigid and silent.

Then a sudden mad fear came upon her, shut up with this with this dreadful, voiceless thing. She screamed in her terror and strove to pull down the window and open the door. But a grip of steel closed suddenly round her wrist and forced her back into her seat. They were already out on the country roads far beyond Versailles. It was darker than before, heavy clouds had banked over the heavens, and the rumbling of thunder was heard low down on the horizon.

The lady lay back panting upon the leather cushions of the carriage. She was a brave woman, and yet this sudden, strange horror coming upon her at the moment when she was weakest had shaken her to the soul. She crouched in the corner, staring across with eyes which were dilated with terror at the figure on the other side. If he would but say something. Any revelation, any menace, was better than this silence.

"Sir," said she, "there is some mistake here. I do not know by what right you prevent me from pulling down the window and giving my directions to the coachman."

He said nothing.

"I repeat, sir, that there is some mistake. This is the carriage of my brother, M. de Vivonne, and he is not a man who will allow his sister to be treated uncourtously."

A few heavy drops of rain splashed against one window. The clouds were lower and denser. She had quite lost sight of that motionless figure, but it was all the more terrible to her now that it was unseen. She screamed with sheer terror.

"Sir," she cried, clutching forward with her hands and grasping his sleeve, "you frighten me. You terrify me. I have never harmed you. Why should you wish to hurt an unfortunate woman? Oh, speak to me, for God's sake, speak!"

Still the pattering of rain upon the window and no other sound save her own sharp breathing.

"Perhaps you do not know who I am?" she continued, endeavoring to assume her usual tone of command, and talking now to an absolute and impenetrable darkness. "You may learn when it is too late that you have chosen the wrong person for this pleasure. I am the Marquise de Montespan, and I am not one who forgets a slight. If you know anything of the court you must know that my word has some weight with the king. If you would—O Jesus! Have mercy!"

A livid flash of lightning had burst from the heart of the cloud and for an instant the whole countryside and the interior of the caleche were as light as day. The man's face was within a hand breadth of her own, his mouth wide open, his eyes mere shining slits, convulsed with silent merriment. Every detail flashed out clear in that vivid light—his red quivering tongue, the lighter pink beneath it, the broad white teeth, the short brown beard cut into a peak and bristling forward. But it was not the sudden flash; it was not the laughing, cruel face, which shot an ice cold shudder through France de Montespan. It was that of all men upon earth, this was he whom she most dreaded and whom she had least thought to see.

"Maurice!" she screamed. "Maurice! It is you?"

"Maurice!" she screamed. "Maurice! It is you?"

"Yes, little wife, it is I. We are restored to each other's arms, you see after this interval."

"Oh, Maurice, how you have frightened me! How could you be so cruel? Why would you not speak to me?"

"Because it was so sweet to sit in silence and to think that I really had you to myself after all these years, with none to come between. Ah, little wife, I have often longed for this hour."

"I have wronged you, Maurice; I have wronged you! Forgive me!"

"We do not forgive in our family, my darling Francoise."

"You may kill me if you will," she moaned.

"I will," said he simply.

Still the carriage flew along, jolting and staggering in the deeply rutted country roads. The storm had passed, but the growl of the thunder and the faroff glint of a lightning flash were to be heard and seen on the other side of the heavens.

"Where are you taking me?" she asked at last.

"To Portillac, my little wife."

"And why there? What would you do to me?"

"I would silence that little lying tongue forever. It shall deceive no more men."

"You would murder me? You have a stone for a heart?"

"It is true. My other was given to a woman."

"Oh, my sins are indeed punished. Can I do nothing to atone?"

"I will see that you atone."

"You have a sword by your side, Maurice. Why do you not kill me, then, if you are so bitter against me? Why do you not pass it through my heart?"

"Rest assured that I would have done so had I not an excellent reason."

"Why, then?"

"I will tell you. At Portillac I have the right of the high justice, the middle and the low. I am seigneur there, and can try, condemn and execute. It is my lawful privilege. This pitiful king will not even know how to avenge you, for the right is mine and he cannot gainsay it without making an enemy of every seigneur in France."

He opened his mouth again and laughed at his own device, while she, shivering in every limb, turned away from his cruel face and glowing eyes and buried her face in her hands. Once more she prayed God to forgive her for her poor sinful life. So they whirled through the night behind the clattering horses, the husband and wife saying nothing, but with hatred and fear raging in their hearts, until a brazier fire shone down upon them from the angle of a keep and the shadow of the huge pile loomed vaguely up in front of them in the darkness. It was the castle of Portillac.

GROOMING COUNTS

But it cannot make a Fair Skin or a Glossy Coat.

Women with good complexions cannot be homely. Creams, lotions, washes and powders cannot make a fair skin. Every horseman knows that the satin coat of his thoroughbred comes from the animal's "all-right" condition. Let the horse get "off his feed" and his coat turns dull. Grooming, brushing and rubbing will give him a clean coat, but cannot produce the coveted smoothness and gloss of the horse's skin, which is his complexion. The ladies will see the point.

A Resume
Before another issue of The Gazette the people of the district shall have decided the Congressional contest. When the scattered flowers of political perfidy and ebou treachery in the career of John M. Reynolds are gathered into a bouquet the perfume stifles the senses.
After deserting his old associates in the Democratic party to get office did not he abandon his new Democratic friends with the same alacrity when he found they could no longer serve his insatiable greed?
When he went over to the Republican party with the same untiring quest, while protesting the purity of his motives, did he not form an alliance with Josiah D. Hicks, the notorious political broker of Blair county? Was this combine made for the public good or the selfish ends of John M. Reynolds?
When he became chairman of the Republican county committee by professing fidelity to E. M. Pennell, Esq., did he not treacherously use the position thus foully obtained to betray the party that trusted him and to defraud the county of its constitutional right to a separate judicial district? With the "fast black" brand of treachery in his heart he took Mr. Pennell by the right hand and looked him in the face, and in the presence of Alvin L. Little, Esq., made that famous speech: You know I sometimes make political promises I don't intend to keep, but this is not a political promise; this is a personal pledge made man to man. Withdraw opposition to my election as chairman and I will do all in my power to promote your election. I can bring you elements of strength (meaning the liquor interests) you cannot otherwise get. I could not afford to be elected chairman and not support the ticket. With this falsehood on his lips he made a speech to the convention pledging his support to the ticket then hastened to his office, where his valise was packed, then to the afternoon train for Harrisburg where he induced the judiciary committee to tack this county to the Huntingdon-Mifflin district. But this is not all; as he descended the steps at the courthouse he said: "I'll be damned if Pennell shall ever be Judge."
As a fitting crown of this statue of infamy, he seeks with unprecedented baseness to escape the responsibility of his utterances when a Democrat by charging them to one no longer conscious of the cares and concerns of this world, knowing full well that the grave can hurl back no denial!
Contrast this record with that of Mr. Thropp. Has he ever broken personal pledges? Has he basely betrayed the confidence of his friends? Has he belonged to all political parties that he might ever be in office?
Ponder well before you vote.

Bailey's Attitude
The candidacy of Warren Worth Bailey for Congress still possesses an element of mystery. But there are some things that are known—
His candidacy has been furthered by the Reynolds organs in this county and his nomination was urged by them.
It was distinctly understood that Bailey was to withdraw when the convention of his home county gave him a "favorite son" compliment.
He has accused the Bedford and Blair delegates to the Congressional conference with having been bought. The representatives from this county were Frank Fletcher, Esq., A. B. Egolf and James L. Tenley, the honesty of no one of whom has ever been questioned; and we assume the Blair delegates are equally trust-worthy.
He has, innocently perhaps, printed letters from this county, some signed by D. S. Horn, Esq., and Dr. Enfield and some anonymous, all of which have misrepresented conditions in this county as shown by the fact that he received but three votes at the primaries after sending a great many papers to this county from lists furnished by Mr. Horn. The purpose of these letters evidently was to put up a bluff here to aid Bailey to secure enough votes in Cambria to elect Reynolds.
They, the Bedford henchmen of the Reynolds-Bailey clique, reported in Bailey's paper a fake organization here, using the names of at least two men who never gave consent, one of whom denounced the treachery in an open letter in our last issue, and could not then fill an executive committee.
Despite the fact that the Dauphin County Court has decided Mr. Bailey cannot use the name "Bryan Democracy" because of infringement, he persistently carries it in his editorial column.
In addition we have the word of Dr. Enfield for it that Reynolds spoke to him of having a Bedford man, supposedly a Democrat, come out. Dr. Enfield says he advised against it and it was dropped.
Are there any thumb prints of John M. Reynolds, who referred to Bailey in complimentary terms in one of his speeches, visible? Reynolds knows and Bailey knows, everybody knows, even Enfield and Horn, that the Democrats had not a ghost of a chance to elect a Congressman without fusion, and they know equally well that the fusion forces of this district gave Thropp a majority of nearly 800 over Reynolds two years ago, and that there was not a dissenting voice in the Democratic convention that nominated him save only that of Dr. Enfield and poor fellow! the delegates present know what it is not necessary for us to state.
The voters of this county appreciate the fact that Mr. Thropp means more to the county than any other one man or any combination of men. A vote for Bailey is a vote for Reynolds, and a vote for Reynolds is a vote for the Penrose machine whose creature Reynolds is—the Penrose machine which robbed the state of at least $7,000,000 in the furnishing of the state capitol and is now open in its purpose to put an end to talk of civic righteousness.

Joseph E. Thropp a Winner
From all indications it is now apparent that Hon. Joseph E. Thropp will be returned to Congress.
Not only will he be a winner over his "gangster" opponent, but he will run ahead of his Emery ticket. This conclusion has been arrived at after a careful study of the political situation in the 19th Congressional district. It is based upon facts in the case which, arranged in order, lead to one inevitable result.
Here are the facts.
John Reynolds, his opponent, was swept into office in a presidential year. He was a weak candidate.

The 19th district gave Roosevelt 30,955 votes. It gave Reynolds 23,164 votes. He was 7,791 votes behind his ticket.
Joseph E. Thropp ran against Reynolds in a presidential year. He was a strong candidate because he ran ahead of his ticket. The district gave him 19,346 votes. In this number are the votes of 7,791 men who voted for Roosevelt but deliberately cut Reynolds' name off their ballot and marked Thropp's in its place.
This year the spirit of civic righteousness is abroad in the land. The reform slogan is crying aloud with greater volume, with more force, than it did during the Berry campaign. So strong is it that it can be reckoned as having the strength of a presidential election.
Joseph E. Thropp stands on the right side of reform movement. Emery will sweep the state, and go into office with a majority similar to the one Roosevelt polled in Cambria, Bedford and Blair counties in 1904. Thropp will go with him to victory. It is reasonable to believe that he will poll every vote he polled before—19,346. Added to that will be the host of Republicans who will vote for Emery. These votes will come from the "Gang" Republican column. Every vote taken away from Reynolds and given to Thropp is equal to two votes for Thropp. Based on the results of the 1904 election 1,790 so transferred would have elected Thropp.
It is safe to predict that 2,000 votes will be taken from the gang's column in the 19th district and placed in the Emery column. This is placing it, in our estimation, low.
Even so placed it means a majority for Thropp. But Emery will have, it is conceded, from 150,000 to 200,000 majority. Thropp will carry all three counties in his district and will be returned a winner by from 2,500 to 3,000 majority.
Aged But Not Infirm
Our esteemed contemporary across the way, the Inquirer, referring to The Gazette says, "Our hoary and esteemed contemporary should not forget that the aged are generally infirm." While this is true in a general way a glance at The Gazette and the Inquirer for just a few weeks will reveal the fact that The Gazette is still one week ahead of the Inquirer.
On October 12, The Gazette published the list of Jurors drawn for November court. The following week the Inquirer came lumbering along with the list in exactly the same form.
On October 19, The Gazette published the court notes of the argument court of the same week. The following week, October 26, the Inquirer gave a much briefer account of the same legal proceedings—only an evidence that the aged Gazette is still in good repair and up-to-date.
What Next?
It is needless to say that John M. Reynolds is not a "Free Trade Democrat." He never was. While holding allegiance to the Democratic party Mr. Reynolds differed with it on the Tariff question and finally was compelled to sunder his connection with the party on account of its stand on the Tariff and money questions.—Johnstown Tribune, October 30.
The editor of the Johnstown Tribune may be sincere in his statement, for Mr. Reynolds may have so informed him, but the facts in the case will not bear out his statement. It is a "mixed" lie which is the most deceptive and pernicious of the many kinds of falsehoods. When Mr. Reynolds was on the stump for Palmer and Buckner his only excuse for being there was that he could not stand Bryan and free silver; then he spoke for free trade and against free silver. This line he followed up to election eve, deceiving those who followed him in the Palmer and Buckner move, and on the morrow voted the straight Republican ticket. There are those living in his home town who have heard him declare for free trade in terms more forcible than eloquent.
This deceptive statement of the may work in Cambria where the people are not so familiar with Reynolds' checkered political career, but it won't go here where the older voters have heard him declare in halls and school-houses and covered bridges all over the county that he was for free trade.

An Automaton
What kind of Representative do we want in Congress? John M. Reynolds says that he recorded his vote on every measure at the last session "in harmony with the wishes of the President." What does this mean? Whether are we drifting? The founders of our government wisely provided three divisions of national government that one branch might act as a check to another. Do we want a kingdom? Is the work of Legislators simply to do the bidding of a President, and spend their spare time in sending out seeds and writing letters to fix their fences for a coming term? If such is the case we had better shut up the lawmaking shop and turn the whole thing over to the President.
But the ideas of the founders of the government will be carried out and automatic Congressmen, such as John M. Reynolds who boasts of doing as the President directs, will be retired by the people. Roosevelt's picture on the back of Reynolds' card will not pull the latter through. Vote against such a pretender.
Daniel S. Horn, Esq., whom Editor Bailey designates as "a lawyer of high standing," has written a letter to the Bedford Gazette and had it printed in Mr. Bailey's paper. Mr. Bailey introduces the letter with a bare-faced lie when he says, "The Gazette, of course, refused to print the letter."
We should not honor it with any reference, for the accusations toward The Gazette are covered editorially in this issue, were it not for the fact that he accuses the sworn officers who conducted the primary election of perjury when he says that the votes cast for Bailey were not all returned. Mr. Honest Voter and Mr. Election Officer, what do you think of this? Don't know Mr. Horn? Why, excuse me; Mr. Honest Voter, Mr. Horn; Mr. Horn shake hands with Mr. Election Officer. Mr. Honest Voter and Mr. Election Officer are both from Democrat township; Mr. Horn is a "lawyer of high standing in the repeated accusations of the Bedford Inquirer and a paper or two in the other counties of this Congressional district that The Gazette has been bought will most certainly react. The Gazette's course has been straight and is so today. True we sold a number of extra copies last week and are doing so this week, at a legitimate price, which is our privilege.

We do our business fairly and squarely the year round. We do not charge one man $1.50 a year for the paper, another $1.00, another 75c and a fourth 75c for two years and cover our tracks by giving all alike receipts for $1.50 a year. Such is the method of that over-righteous journal which is so ready to accuse us of questionable transactions. We mean the Bedford Inquirer.
Dr. Americus V. Enfield was U. S. pension examiner under the Cleveland administration. When the Doctor came out for Bryan in 1896 Reynolds had him removed. He was reappointed when he could be of service to Reynolds and since that time has been unswerving in his devotion to Reynolds, the Big Boss. The Doctor knows his lesson. If he does not support Reynolds and what Reynolds wants he may be kicked out again.
The statement in the letter of Hon. J. H. Longenecker, published elsewhere in this issue, is straight-forward and manly, and it refutes with evidence from state records the lies printed by two of our contemporaries in this county concerning the legislative record of Lewis Emery, Jr. The letter is another evidence that there are men who place honesty above treachery and perfidy.
A vote for the fusion ticket is a vote for civic righteousness in county, district and state.

Demoerats! Attention!
Every Democratic voter in Bedford county owes it to his self-respect, to his fidelity to his party, to his sense of justice, to vote against John M. Reynolds on Tuesday next. He should not only vote, but use all honest efforts to secure the votes of others against this renegade Democrat, who has proved himself to be a traitor, a sheep in a wolf's hide, to every political organization with which he has been connected.
He deceived Longenecker, Jordan and Pennell in the Judicial contest. He deceived Alsip in the Legislative contest. He has deceived and is deceiving Miller in the Senatorial contest.
He played the Democratic voters for all they were worth, for many years, then kicked them below "the belt," turned his back on them, and has abused them ever since. Give him now a Solar Plexus blow.
All the false and lying charges made by Swallow and Castle against Mr. Emery and reproduced in the debased organs of the Penrose machine, in state and county, have even less basis than those so completely refuted by Chapman and Chapman. All of them were made years ago by Standard Oil Company agents and were fully refuted at the time they were first published. They were, in fact, referred to and embraced in the comprehensive retraction of Patrick C. Boyle.
Sentiment in Blair and Cambria is so strong against Reynolds that the machine leaders will not allow him to speak in either county. Alas, poor Yorick!

WOLFSBURG, Oct. 31, 1906.
Urgent Appeal From Thinking Citizens.
Editor Gazette:
In these closing hours of the political struggle that has shaken the old Keystone State from centre to circumference, permit me to express to you directly my appreciation of The Gazette in this campaign. I congratulate you on its "cleanness." Your editorials have been truthful, honest and manly, showing beyond doubt or cavil that you are not a "character assassin."
On next Tuesday the voters of our county will have the opportunity to strike a killing blow to machine politics, that hideous monster of the "system," by electing to office fit, honest men who for years have openly opposed the organization.
The test of the fitness of men for self-government should stimulate every last one of us to bury partisanship or disappointed ambition and become ideal citizens through an honest effort to elect honest officials.
Citizen kings of Bedford county, do not skulk! Don't retreat,—come out into the open, ye men who are doubting, and help elect the Fusion Ticket! Our candidate for the Legislature, Hon. Edmund S. Doty, is an ideal citizen. His character, training, honesty, fearlessness and integrity of purpose, make him an ideal man for the Legislature, especially as it is known to all men who care to know the truth, that the office sought him and that he did not seek the office. "He stands four-square to all the winds that blow," and is the man of character who "harbors angels, reveres reverence and lives with God." Vote for him!
General Koontz needs no defense or eulogy from me, he is a positive quantity in himself. In the days that are past he has always been on the side of right, and he is still there. Vote for him! W. B. P.
Democrats, Lincoln Republicans, Prohibitionists, Socialists!
A vote for Bailey is a vote thrown away. Vote straight for Thropp, the people's candidate and the workingman's friend, and the whole Democratic ticket.

MERIT
The Only Thing That Counts
This Ready-to-Wear Clothing and Shoe Business has made a wonderful advance in the last few years. It has been a steady, strong growth—not produced by sensational or clap-trap methods.
Why Has It Grown?
Because people believe in us—because Merit is the only thing that permanently makes success.
If a business can hold its old customers despite the efforts of competitors to lure them away, and in addition steadily gains new trade, it's an entirely safe proposition that it is going ahead every year. That's exactly what we are doing. The place where so many are satisfied must be a good place to deal—don't you think so? Now a word about

Besides this, we warrant every pair of Shoes we sell to give good wear or a new pair in exchange. HON. WM. H. KOONTZ

Writes Letter to the Voters of Bedford County

DEFINING HIS POSITION

Voted Against Placing Capitol Construction in Hands of Politicians.

To the Voters of Bedford County:

Honored with the unsolicited nomination of the Lincoln Republican and Democratic parties for State Senator for the 36th District, composed of the counties of Bedford, Fulton and Somerset, in view of the grave dangers besetting Pennsylvania, I feel it my duty to accept the call of the people who have thus ignored party lines in an effort to relieve the state from misrule, and the high carnival of crime that has reigned so long at Harrisburg.

It will be impossible for me to personally see all the voters of the county and I therefore take this means of urging you to go to the polls on election day, Tuesday, November 6, 1906, and cast your vote in favor of honest government.

When in the Legislature, I voted against the appropriation of $4,000,000 for the new capitol, because the building thereof was placed in the hands of politicians. My offered amendment to place it in the hands of named practical builders being voted down by the "gang" legislators. Nine million dollars more money has wrongfully been taken from the treasury for the "furnishings." Some one is responsible for this illegal and unauthorized expenditure and extravagance, and if elected I promise to do all in my power for an honest investigation of the capitol steal, and to secure the punishment of the guilty persons.

The vile tongue of the "gang" slanderer has not been idle since I consented to become a candidate. I have no words of censure for those who have thus engaged. My life has been lived in Somerset, and the vote that will be given me on election day by my neighbors will be a sufficient answer to them.

To most of you I am known as having been a member of the Somerset Bar for fifty years last past; an Independent Republican guided always in public office by what I honestly believed to be for the best interest of my native county and state.

I shall esteem it a personal compliment to receive your vote, on this perhaps, the last occasion my name will be offered as a candidate for public position, and it honored with an election I shall continue as in the past, as opportunity affords, to give my best efforts for the protection and advancement of the interest of the whole people.

This is a struggle by the common people irrespective of party, for honest government against a corrupt and defiant "gang" fighting to keep its hands in the public treasury, and to avoid legislative investigations that will place the responsibility for these great public wrongs where it belongs, and the guilty into prison stripes.

The cause is yours; save yourselves from further misgovernment. Do your part and I will do mine.

Yours for good government, honest measures and honest men.

W. H. Koontz.

At the home of the bride on October 24, Rev. E. F. Johnson, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian church of Schellsburg, united in matrimony Mr. Wilmer I. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Taylor, and Miss Rula Ray Statler, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Statler. Success are the wishes of

If you want trolley lines to carry freight, vote for Gen. William H. Koontz for Senator and Hon. E. S. Doty for Representative.

POLITICAL POINTERS

It is government "of the people" that is at stake.

Elect Cessna Poor Director and lift the lid at the Alms House.

"Me and Roosevelt."—Speech of Hon. John M. Reynolds at Altoona.

Vote for Emery, Thropp, Doty, Koontz and the whole fusion ticket.

A vote for the Lincoln or Democratic ticket is a vote for civic righteousness.

No Democrat can vote for John M. Reynolds for Congress and preserve his self-respect.

Emery's election as Governor is conceded. Let us make a clean sweep in the county and district.

"I favor such National legislation as shall meet the just demands of the workingman."—Hon. J. E. Thropp's Letter of Acceptance.

"I know that I shall be purposefully misrepresented, as I have been in the past. My record and character are my best defenses."—Hon. J. E. Thropp's Letter of Acceptance.

Every man who loves his home and his family should go to the polls on Tuesday and vote to crush finally and forever the gang of ringsters masquerading under the name of Republicans.

Farmers, when you vote for State Senator, remember the new road law which Hon. W. C. Miller voted for last year. As you vote for Miller or against him, you vote to approve or condemn that road law.

"I have always believed in the justice of service pensions and shall support every policy designed to repay the gigantic debt of gratitude the Nation owes to those who have offered their lives to preserve the Union."—Hon. J. E. Thropp's Letter of Acceptance.

The last "machine" Legislature put a head tax of a dollar for road purposes on every voter living in the townships. W. C. Miller voted for that law and now asks the voters to return him to the Senate. Will you do it?

Remember the card, with the unmentionable quotation, which George W. Oster circulated two years ago when a candidate for nomination. Then go to the polls and vote for Hon. E. S. Doty, a man clean in speech and clean in life, for Representative in the General Assembly.

If Thropp only paid for the Saxton furnaces one-fifth of their value, why did not Reynolds' friend, Washington, bid a few more thousand dollars and prevent Mr. Thropp from getting hold of the property?

Pure Gold Seldom Seen

Pure gold is of one unvarying and unchanging color, but few people ever see such gold. The kind used as money or for jewelry has alloy in it after it is manufactured into the desired article. In medicine, however, there is one remedy that can always be relied on for its purity and that is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. In its composition is used only the very best and purest ingredients, and its increasing popularity is proof that the public appreciates this one pure remedy. Therefore we urge you to insist on having Hostetter's with our Private Stamp over the neck of the bottle. It always cures poor appetite, sick headache, vomiting, indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulency, female ills, chills, colds or malarial fever. Don't fail to try a bottle at once.

Senator William C. Miller of Bedford attended two meetings held by the gang in this county, but none of the gang organs thought the incident worthy of mention. From present indications Miller will be lucky to get 1,000 votes in Somerset county.—Somerset Herald.

Temperance People—Liquor People

Get together and compare notes. Reynolds is deceiving both of you. He is the grandest "poser" in the country. He has the ability and uses it in efforts to adapt his sentiments, on all questions, to the opinions of his auditors.

The Democrats of the county know him, and they know that the Republicans will soon know him, and that the temperance element and the liquor element will soon know him as he is otherwise known.

HIS REASONS

In a Recent Address to a Large Audience in Johnstown

DR. L. M. COLFELT

Told Why He Is Against John M. Reynolds and in Favor of Joseph E. Thropp.

Johnstown, October 30.—In the interest of the election of Joseph E. Thropp, fusion candidate for Congress from the 19th Congressional district, Rev. Dr. Lawrence M. Colfelt, who lately resigned his ministry with the Oxford Presbyterian church of Philadelphia, is touring Bedford, Blair and Cambria counties speaking two or three times a day, rousing the people to "throw off the yoke of the gang and vote for Thropp for Congress."

The strong, forceful arguments of the gifted orator are having a great effect upon the community, because he is a resident of Bedford township, he edits the Pennsylvania Hawkeye, and is in deadly earnest to defeat his fellow townsman, Reynolds, the Penrose Congressman who is up for re-election, on the machine ticket.

In his speech at Johnstown tonight he plead with the voters to vote against the "political trimmer" of Bedford, and said:

"I am opposed to John M. Reynolds because he is a member of the 'corrupt and criminal combination' which has been masquerading as Republicans in this section."

"I am opposed to John M. Reynolds because he is a corporation lawyer. What man among you but knows that he will be a corporation lawyer after he ceases to be a Congressman? What man among you but knows that he was a corporation lawyer before he became a Congressman? Is it reasonable to believe that he can serve two masters? Is it reasonable to believe that when it comes to the test in Congress that he must decide between his two masters, he will serve the people who elected him? No, he will not. He will serve his corporations. That's why he was sent to Congress. He has demonstrated himself that this would be his course, for he was one of the 18 Congressmen from Pennsylvania who bolted the caucus when President Roosevelt's railroad rate legislation was in question, when the President was looking around for friends, and thus he served his corporation interests. I am going over this district reiterating this thing. If the people elect John Reynolds to Congress they are warming a viper in their breasts."

"I am opposed to John M. Reynolds because he is opposed to civic righteousness and all it means, because he is looking out for John M. Reynolds first, last and all the time. He is not a statesman, he is not actuated by any principles of honesty in politics."

"I am in favor of Joseph E. Thropp because he stands for everything that Reynolds fails to stand for; because he is a business man and a benefit to the community in which he lives; because he stands for the principles of reform, because he has been an independent for 20 years, fighting the gang which has its grip on the throat of the state and nation. He is a clean man, both in his public and private life, and he is a true friend of the laboring man."

Hon. William H. Koontz

The election of General Koontz to represent the Thirty-sixth district in the State Senate is already assured beyond reasonable doubt.

This veteran's appearance in the Senate—a body hitherto held as an asset of the Philadelphia bootleggers—would not be welcomed by the Penrose contingent with unmixed pleasure, but it would be a sign of the passing of the gang that has wielded such a malevolent influence on politics and legislation in this state.

The election of men of General Koontz's calibre in a majority of the Representative and Senatorial districts is of high importance at this time. It will mean much more than the mere overthrow of the discredited junta at Harrisburg. It will mean the enactment into law of the body of reforms demanded by the people of the state.

It will mean the effective support of the Emery administration by a reform Legislature. It will mean the divorce of legislation from politics, and it will mean the coming of the time when the service of the state will again be recognized as an honorable profession—when honest men may go into politics without the suspicion of the taint of graft or the odor of the machine clinging to their garments.

For these reasons and for many more it is gratifying to the friends of decent government in this district that the election of William H. Koontz is so well assured.

With General Koontz in the Senate the district will not need to blush, as it has so often done in the recent past, for the subservience of its representative to the machine.

James B. Cessna

James Buchanan Cessna, the Democratic candidate for Director of Poor in this county, was born one mile and a quarter west of Rainsburg, on November 4, 1856, the day on which that distinguished son of Pennsylvania, James Buchanan, was elected to the highest office in our government—the President of the United States—and his parents gave him the name of the successful Democratic candidate. Mr. Cessna has spent all his life in the neighborhood where he was born and no man could enjoy the confidence of the people more fully than he, and those who differ with him in politics believe him to be one of the most correct, upright Christian gentlemen to be found in the community.

Mr. Cessna has been one of the commissioners of the town or borough for a number of years. He has filled the offices of president and treasurer of the board, to the entire satisfaction of all concerned. He is a member of the I. O. O. F. and Camp No. 412 P. O. S. of A. of Rainsburg, and in these orders, as in his relation to the corporation affairs, he has filled the offices to which he has been called with credit to himself, and to the satisfaction of the members of the orders. A man with such a record, if elected, will certainly look after the welfare of the poor on the one hand and the interests of the county on the other, and the interests of all will be safe in the hands of James B. Cessna.

Allen A. Diehl

This candidate for Jury Commissioner was born in Colerain township on September 9, 1855. He was educated in the common schools of the district. Mr. Diehl is one of our industrious farmers and at all times has taken a lively interest in the affairs of his district. He is a member of Lodge No. 730, I. O. O. F., of Rainsburg. In 1903 he was elected to the office of Jury Commissioner, which duties he performed carefully and conscientiously, to the entire satisfaction of all. He has served his party as a member of the Democratic County Committee for 24 years, during which time his duties were performed to the best of his ability. For nine years he filled satisfactorily the position of tax collector. Although a Democrat, he has always had a just regard for the opinions of those who differed from him politically.

Vote for Allen A. Diehl for Jury Commissioner and you will not have cause to regret it.

Electric Train Jumps Track

In a horrible railroad accident just outside Atlantic City, last Sunday, at least sixty persons lost their lives and many more were injured. A Pennsylvania electric train of three cars, running 25 miles an hour, struck a spread rail on the drawbridge spanning the Thoroughfare and plunged into 35 feet of water. Every person in the first two cars perished without even a fighting chance for life, the cars being closely vestibuled, with air-tight windows. A few managed to escape from the third car, the rear end of which rested above the water on one of the projecting piers of the bridge.

The trestle is about fifteen feet above the water and the drop down to it required several seconds, giving time for the passengers, men, women and children to see and calculate their fate. Most of the passengers of the ill-fated train were from Philadelphia and Camden.

Miller, the Penrose candidate for Senator, opposed the bill to permit trolleys to carry freight.

MET DEATH ON THE RAIL

J. Frank Beckley of This Place Killed Near Lewistown.

A gloom was thrown over this community last Friday morning when word reached here that Frank Beckley had lost his life under the wheels of a freight train, near Lewistown, at 8:10 o'clock that morning. An account of the sad accident, as reported the Altoona Tribune, is here given in part:

"Beckley was 19 years old and was employed as an extra telegraph operator on the middle division under W. H. Basley. He was working the third track at McVeytown tower Thursday night and after breakfast he and another extra operator, D. W. Fike of McVeytown, jumped on a freight train to go to Horningsford to visit Fike's grandmother. After the visit both ran over the bank to catch a passing freight train. Fike jumped on the rear end of the cabin, but for some unknown reason Beckley attempted to get on the train four cars ahead of the cabin. He slipped, his hold broke and he was thrown under the wheels. His body was taken to Lewistown and turned over to the coroner. Fike remained with him until his body was turned over to the coroner. He was a member of the Williamsport division of the Order of Railway Telegraphers and universally popular among the members of his craft."

John Franklin Beckley, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Beckley, of this place, was born at Cessna, on January 13, 1888, being, at the time of his death, 18 years, nine months and 13 days old.

Frank was a young man of correct habits, and his cheerful disposition won for him many friends who mourn his early death. He is survived by his parents, two sisters and one brother: Georgia, Marguerite and Raymond. The body was brought to his home here Saturday morning and funeral services were held at the home of his parents, on East Pitt street, Saturday afternoon, conducted by Rev. M. L. Culler. Interment in the Bedford cemetery.

John Leo

Several weeks ago Miss Jennie Leo of this place was called to Pittsburg to the bedside of her father, who had been stricken with apoplexy, and remained with him until his sufferings were ended, Monday afternoon, October 29.

John Leo was born in Cumberland, Md., about 65 years ago. When a young man he came to Bedford and was united in marriage with Miss Kate Imier of Bedford township, who died about 15 years ago. He is survived by one brother, Richard V. Leo of this place, and the following children: Mrs. Gertrude Edwards of Windber, Harry of Bedford township and Misses Jennie and Alice Leo, of Bedford. The body was brought to this place Tuesday night and taken to the home of his brother. Funeral services were conducted at St. Thomas' Catholic church, of which he was a member, by Rev. D. Cashman, at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning and interment was made in the cemetery west of town.

Harry Claar Ickes

Harry Claar Ickes of Wolsburg, whose death occurred in Pittsburg last Wednesday from typhoid fever, was born at Coal Station, on Broad Top, 19 years ago. He was in the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Pittsburg, having left Wolsburg some time ago. Mr. Ickes was a member of the baseball team of his home town and leaves a large number of friends, by whom he will be greatly missed. He was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ickes and is survived by his parents and seven brothers and sisters: Samuel, Frank, Daniel, Charles, George, Amy and Hazel, all of Wolsburg. The body was brought to his late home, where funeral services were conducted by Rev. Keboch and interment was made in the Mt. Smith cemetery.

Jacob H. Snyder

Jacob H. Snyder, one of Monroe township's prominent farmers, died at his home near Pine Ridge on Sunday, October 21, aged 58 years. Deceased had been in failing health for several years. Mr. Snyder was an upright, christian man and was highly respected by all. He had been a member of the M. E. church since boyhood and was always active in church work. He is survived by his wife, four sons and one daughter: Edgar of Clearville, George, William and Cromwell, all of Monroe township, and Eliza, wife of Prof. J. Willis Barney. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Snyder Tuesday afternoon in Shreve's chapel, where interment was made.

Bessie I. Hartman

Bessie Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hartman, of Everett, died October 25, after a long illness from Bright's disease, aged 17 years. About six years ago the little girl was terribly burned and had never regained her health. She was a member of the Baptist Sunday school and was loved by her companions. She is survived by her parents and several brothers and sisters.

BLANKENBURG'S ARTICLE

Forty Years in the Wilderness or Masters and Rulers of

"THE FREEMEN"

The Severest Blow Inflicted on Gang
Supremacy—Committee of
"Twenty-One."

[Copyright, 1905, by Albert Brandt.]

On the morning of June 7, closely following the installation of the new order of things, President Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad, accompanied by one of his principal assistants, made a personal call at the office of Mayor Weaver, spending nearly an hour conferring with him about some entirely proper ordinances relating to the removal of grade-crossings and the extension of the company's tracks in West Philadelphia and elsewhere. Three weeks earlier, such a conference, if held at all, would have taken place in the office of Israel W. Durham in the Betz building, or at the company's offices, instead of in that of Mayor Weaver, in the City Hall.

Another distinctive change occurred at once. Upon the retirement of Director of Public Safety Smyth, a dozen or more policemen, who had been tried and found guilty of intoxication, neglect of duty, disobedience of orders, and other offenses subservient of discipline, remained unsentenced. Under Director Smyth, offenses of this kind were generally punished by suspension for a few days followed by restoration to duty, which amounted in effect to a condonation of the offense. Director Potter promptly dismissed from the force eleven of these offenders, thus serving notice at the very outset of his administration that in future police discipline would be rigidly maintained and that political influence would not save a derelict member of the force from the just penalty of his own misdoings. The effect of this example was to at once increase the efficiency of the police force and to restore it to its proper sphere in the municipal government. Following out this policy, Director Potter notified the captains and lieutenants, and through them the entire body of policemen, that they were to serve the city and not the machine; to maintain its peace and not to mix in its politics.

The police and all municipal officials were next informed that they would not be required to pay political assessments or contributions of any sort toward the maintenance of political clubs, this information being supplemented by the further intimation that membership in political clubs would be looked upon in the future with disfavor and treated as a bar rather than a reason for promotion. City employees were also notified that they would be expected to pay their debts, complaints having been made in many quarters that bills incurred were long overdue. The merciless blackmailing for political purposes, to which they had been subjected by their tyrannical masters in the Betz building, was doubtless in many instances responsible for their inability to pay their debts, and the order releasing them from these exactions removed any valid excuse for their failure to pay their debts in future.

The severest blow, however, to Gang supremacy was yet to be inflicted and that was administered by an order requiring all city employees to report to their superiors the number of real voters who should be assessed from their respective houses. As has been formerly stated, thousands of fictitious voters had for years been carried on the assessment lists from the residences of policemen and other city officials. Director Potter had been furnished indisputable proof of this, and his notification to the employees to report the number of actual voters domiciled in their respective places of residence carried with it the assurance that if they attempted any deception they would be detected and punished summarily. While it is too early to approximately foreshadow the effect of this order, the general impression is that it will eliminate scores of thousands of fraudulent or fictitious names from the assessors' lists, thus wiping out at a single stroke one basis upon which the enormous fraudulent machine-majorities of former years has rested. With the assessed list of voters reduced to honest proportions, and the voters themselves relieved of the terrorism imposed by the power of official pressure, the public sentiment of Philadelphia will in future be able to express itself. In other words, Gang-rule can never be revived in Philadelphia except by the deliberate consent of a majority of its real instead of its bogus citizens.

Although the overthrow of the masters of Philadelphia came almost without warning and in the twinkling of an eye, it has jarred, if not shattered, the autocratic machine-organization throughout the length and breadth of the state. The tyranny inflicted by the "Boas Mansion Junta" upon the country members of the Legislature at Harrisburg, during the last session of the Legislature, had been bitterly resented in every section of the state, and the disruption and complete shattering of the Durham-McNichol power in Philadelphia was followed by instant signs of revolt everywhere. To check the growth of this discontent into immediate organized revolution required prompt action, and although Durham was disheartened and hopeless, and Penrose, never a cool-headed, courageous or competent leader in times of political stress, had lapsed into a state of abject timidity, there were still some cool heads among the Organization followers in the state.

The death of Justice John Dean, of the Supreme Court, had unexpectedly opened the way for a fusion of the dissatisfied voting-elements of the commonwealth, by the nomination of an Independent Republican of acknowledged fitness and state-wide reputation to fill the vacancy. Democratic papers and leaders were advocating the nomination of Judge John Stewart, an Independent Republican of Franklin county, upon the Democratic ticket, the Democratic State Convention having nominated a strong and popular candidate for the office of State Treasurer. It was clearly foreseen by those Organization leaders who had not entirely lost their heads by the political earthquake in Philadelphia, that if the Democrats should adopt this course the proposed combination ticket might easily rally to its support half the Republican voters of the state, carrying the machine, state-ticket down to irretrievable defeat.

A hasty conference of Republican Congressmen, State Senators and administration office-holders and ex-office-holders was called in Philadelphia, and although the proposition to place Judge Stewart, who had been an independent candidate for Governor in 1882, defeating General Beaver and insuring the election of Robert E. Pattison, was wormwood and gall to the thoroughly-cowed and humbled machine-leaders, it was either that or inevitable defeat. And so with inexpressible grimaces of disgust the Gang swallowed their medicine and agreed to recommend to Governor Pennypacker the immediate appointment of Judge Stewart, and provided for the calling of the Republican state committee within two weeks to place him in regular nomination for the full twenty-one year term. Thus dissolved into thin air the fond but unsubstantial dream of Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker that he should fill this coveted office at the behest of the "once most influential political leader" of Philadelphia. Turning to John Stewart to save them from political annihilation comes perilously near to the Scriptural alternative of calling for the rocks and the mountains to fall on them to save them from impending wrath.

It is not the scope of this article, nor would space permit a recital of the magnificent and effective work done under Mayor Weaver's direction since the ever-memorable 22d of May, when he threw down the gauntlet to the looters, who drunk with power and ravenous for plunder, were more arrogant and insolent than at any time during the Organization's existence. The history of this municipal revolution, unparalleled in the annals of our country, will ever prove a most interesting theme when recorded from its inception to its consummation and results. It must suffice now to briefly embody in our story the latest happenings that bear upon the subject, and to have the reader follow further developments as they will be related in the press of the country for Philadelphia's arising has been of national moment and importance and its history is followed at home and abroad with ever-increasing interest.

A move that caused consternation and dismay in the ranks of the Organization was the selection by Mayor Weaver of an "Advisory Board" of fourteen well-known citizens, to discuss and advise with him on questions relating to the administration of the business of the municipality. The members of this board are John H. Converse, Hon. William Potter, Hugh McCaffrey, Rudolph Blankenburg, Hon. Charles Emory Smith, Walter F. Hagar, Mahlon N. Kline, Francis B. Reeves, William T. Tilden, William W. Justice, Morris Newburger, Dr. John H. Musser, John H. Michener and Charles H. Harding. The naming of this "Advisory Board" was hailed with satisfaction by all but Organization friends and a few individuals whose allegiance with corporations and whose general interests make them look askance on any movement that threatens to change conditions under which they have been thriving and prospering.

The community was startled by the arrest of Select Councilman Frank H. Caven, who was charged with being illegally interested with the McNichol firm in sand contracts for the filtration plant. At the hearing before Magistrate Eisenbrown, Daniel J. McNichol, the ostensible head of the firm, testified that he had only one-twelfth interest in the concern, and named as co-partners, Israel W. Durham, James P. McNichol, and at one time the latter's wife (while J. P. was a member of Select Council). This statement threw a flood of light upon the whole political situation; McNichol and Durham were not only in political but in business partnership, with the city of Philadelphia for years the helpless victim. Caven was held in $2,500 bail for trial at the next term of court.

In the meanwhile the Rapid Transit Company was engaged in an attempt to prevent the repeal of the trolley-bills which had been passed by councils over the Mayor's veto, but as the City Solicitor's opinion, rendered with a dispatch very annoying to the Gang, declared the repeal bills legal, the Mayor was sustained by a now quite lamb-like councils. Thus a steal of millions that had been in the grasp of the grafters was annulled.

The Mayor has as his legal adviser Ex-Judge James Gay Gordon, perhaps the brainiest, most competent and courageous member of the Philadelphia bar, free from corporation fetters and social checks. Judge Gordon was overwhelmed with work, his task was herculean and his responsibilities so great, that Mayor Weaver also retained Ex-Secretary of War Elihu Root, one of the most distinguished members of the American bar.

The Organization suddenly made its appearance in brand-new reform-livery and rumors spread that there would be a surprise. It became known that the Gang candidates for Sheriff, Coroner and County Commissioners would be asked to withdraw to make room for men, who, while not tarred with the Organization stick, had enough of its flavor to be palatable. When it was ascertained, however, that the reform bodies would not deal with Penrose, Durham, McNichol & Co. under any cir-circumstances a different move became necessary. In this Organization dilemma a new committee suddenly made its appearance—the committee of "Twenty-One." It is not known whether this committee was authorized at a town-meeting, or whether it was born or foster-fathered in a private office of the president of a savings institution who has close connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad. No one seems willing to father it, or even stand sponsor for it, yet it does not appear to be the off-spring of spontaneity. By merest accident twenty of its members are also members of the Union League, two of them ex-presidents of that body; eight are not even residents of Philadelphia, but vote in adjoining counties.

The burden of the letter addressed by these "eminently respectable" citizens to Sheriff Miles, chairman of the city committee, shining light of the Organization, leader of one of the most disreputable wards, is that the present reform-wave portends evil to the Republican party of "Lincoln, McKinley and Roosevelt," and that what we want is "reform within the party." They asked that a new ticket should be named. President Roosevelt has since replied to this "wall of the wisp" by ordering the removal from federal office of C. Meeser, one of the men implicated in the Salter ballot-frauds and a member of the Republican party of "Penrose, Durham and McNichol!"

The Organization again took heart and politely replied that while the "City Committee" was the only legally-constituted body to act in this matter, it would be pleased to have the counsel and advice of the "Twenty-One." Upon investigation the origin of this movement was traced to a shrewd, fertile-brained member of the bar, who had had experience in political "flops." He broached to Senator Penrose the project of calling upon "eminent respectability" to help the Organization in its extremity. The Senator gladly assented. It is but just to say that a number of the signers were taken unawares and really thought they were performing a public duty by signing the letter. Some have since declared that they affixed their signatures before the Caven hearing, etc., and no movement of this character ever fell as flat as this effort to bolster up a gang of corruptionists by an appeal to genuine Republicans.

An excellent bon mot, expressive of the general opinion on this ill-advised move, was by Ex-Mayor Stuart, who, when asked why he had not signed the letter of the "Twenty-One," replied: "Because I am twenty-one." Chairman Miles wrote Chairman Darlington of the "Twenty-One" that he had appointed a sub-committee of three, of course all converts to the cause of reform: Messrs. Lane, Martin, Miles (ex-officio), who would be pleased to confer with a similar committee of the "Twenty-One" (since, if rumor is correct, considerably shrunk in membership). This probably will, and certainly should, end an abortive effort to galvanize into new life as corrupt a body of politicians as has ever been known.

The arrest of John W. Hill, chief of the Filtration Bureau, who had resigned his office, on charges of forgery and falsification of papers, created profound excitement; he was, after a prolonged hearing, held in $8,000 bail for court.

We must here stop our narrative, although many matters of interest might be added. Investigations in all city departments are being made, and before this issue of The Arena reaches its readers there will probably have fallen into the hands of the law some of the star actors in this drama of the most "American" of our cities, no longer "Corrupt and Contented," but now being "Cleansed and Chastened."

When I commenced to write these papers on "Forty Years in the Wilderness," it was far from my thought that the reign of corruption which had its beginning in 1865, at the close of the Civil War, might come to an end in 1905, or within the number of years the children of Israel wandered in the wilderness.

The eyes of every community afflicted by evils similar to those we have so long suffered, nay the eyes of our whole, vast country, are today riveted upon John Weaver, Mayor of Philadelphia, who has taken a courageous, uncompromising and unalterable position to secure for us the best government obtainable. We all wish him God-speed!

The future is promising indeed; the people now know that their power is irresistible if stirred in the holy cause of honesty in public affairs, and they will not again, let us pray, permit public plunderers to take the place of the faithful, unselfish and fearless citizens of the republic. My heart was heavy and almost despairing when I undertook the task of writing these articles. The day of deliverance seemed far off, but, thanks to the abnormal voracity, the unheard of arrogance and utter defiance of the laws of God and man on the part of the Organization, and thanks to an awakened public conscience the day has come, let us hope to stay!

DO NOT BE A BURDEN

F. W. Jordan Gives Some Good Advice to Readers of The Gazette.

Many people in Bedford are a burden not only to themselves but to others because of indigestion and its resulting ailments.

The backaches, headaches, distress after eating, loss of appetite, gulping up of undigested food and gases, can all be overcome by the use of Mi-o-na stomach tablets.

This remedy is not a mere digestive, it is a positive strengthener of the digestive organs, putting them in shape so that they can digest any food that is eaten. Mi-o-na is used before meals and so strengthens the digestive organs, while other remedies are taken after meals simply to digest the food without giving permanent relief.

F. W. Jordan sells Mi-o-na in 50c boxes under a positive guarantee that it will cure or money will be refunded.

Cured of Bright's Disease

Mr. Robert O. Burke, Elmore, N. Y., writes: "Before I started to use Foley's Kidney Cure I had to get up from twelve to twenty times a night, and I was all bloated up with dropsy, and my eyesight was so impaired I could scarcely see one of my family across the room. I had given up hope of living, when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. One 50 cent bottle worked wonders and before I had taken the third bottle the dropsy had gone, as well as all other symptoms of Bright's disease." Ed. D. Heckerman.

It is a well known medical fact that pine resin is most effective in the treatment of diseases of the bladder and kidneys. Sufferers from back ache and other troubles due to faulty action of the kidneys find relief in the use of Pine-ules. $1.00 buys 30 days treatment. Sold by J. Reed Irvine.

Dancing Proves Fatal

Many men and women catch colds at dances which terminate in pneumonia and consumption. After exposure, if Foley's Honey and Tar is taken it will break up a cold and no serious results need be feared. Refuse any but the genuine in a yellow package. Ed. D. Heckerman.

The best treatment for indigestion and troubles of the stomach is to rest the stomach. It can be rested by starvation or by the use of a good digestant which will digest the food eaten, thus taking the work off the stomach. At the proper temperature, a single teaspoonful of Kodol will wholly digest 3,000 grains of food. It relieves the present annoyance, puts the stomach in shape to satisfactorily perform its functions. Good for indigestion, sour stomach, flatulence, palpitation of the heart and dyspepsia. Kodol is made in strict conformity with the National Pure Food and Drug Law. Sold by Ed. D. Heckerman.

Pine-salve cleanses wounds, is highly antiseptic, unequaled for cracked hands. Good for cuts. Sold by J. Reed Irvine.

We have secured the agency for Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup, the new laxative that makes the liver lively, purifies the breath, cures headache and regulates the digestive organs. Cures chronic constipation. Ask us about it. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Tone the liver, move the bowels, cleanse the system. Dade's Little Liver Pills never gripe. Sold by J. Reed Irvine.

Pneumonia Follows a Cold but never follows the use of Foley's Honey and Tar. It stops the cough, heals and strengthens the lungs and prevents pneumonia. Ed. D. Heckerman.

Potomac Synod of Reformed Church

The Synod closed its 34th annual session Monday afternoon, after one of the most interesting and enthusiastic meetings in its history. The sessions opened Tuesday evening, October 16, with a sermon by its President, Rev. Henry H. Apple of York, on the subject, "The Authority for Christian Belief." Rev. A. S. Weber of Baltimore, Md., was elected President; Elder W. J. Zacharias of Chambersburg, Vice President; Rev. Lloyd E. Coblenz of Baltimore, Stated Clerk, and Rev. A. F. Nace of Juniata, Reading Clerk. The meetings were well attended, almost all the delegates being present, and many of the people of Chambersburg appearing as interested hearers. Occasionally enthusiasm surged high, as when the delegates contributed $100 as the first fruits of an effort to bring the Foreign Mission Board's work to a cash basis. Throughout the meetings a spirit of calm consideration put bone and sinew into the fervor of enthusiasm.

Chief among the various interests that claimed Synod's attentions was Missions, home and foreign. Rev. Thos. M. Yundt, together with a band of missionaries in our larger cities, was present. He addressed a public meeting Wednesday evening. There are 180 missions today located at points of vital importance. The special claim of 1906-'07 is to raise $25,000 for the work in Chicago. Rev. Chas. E. Wehler of Newton, N. C., made an earnest plea for missions in the south. Here as in the west the great need is men. Rev. A. C. Whitmer, on another occasion spoke very feelingly of the Reformed Hungarian missionary workers.

Rev. Dr. J. I. Good, president of the Board, Rev. Dr. A. R. Bartholomew, secretary, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. D. B. Schneider, of Japan, and Miss Carrie J. Dreibleb of China represented the foreign branch of the mission work. Two greatly needed missionaries at Chen Chow, China, to assist Dr. Kelly would be available were the funds for their support forthcoming; Dr. Bartholomew laid the matter upon the heart of the Synod which, after seriously considering the problem of ways and means resolved to make the effort to sustain the Board for the $1,200 needed.

Next to missions, the schools of the church enlisted the interest of Synod. The Eastern Theological Seminary, Lancaster, represented by Prof. J. C. Bowman and John W. Appel; Franklin and Marshall College, represented by Prof. E. M. Hartman; Mercersburg Academy, by its head master, Dr. William Mann Irvine; the Woman's College of Frederick, President Jos. H. Apple, A. M.; Catawba College, Newton, N. C., President Dr. Geo. A. Snyder, and Massanutten Academy, Prof. Benchoff, each of whom told an interesting story of hard work and encouraging progress. But little more than $10,000 is needed to complete the $150,000 endowment the church set out to raise for Franklin and Marshall. Dr. Bowman told of a movement to put the Theological Seminary on a surer basis, in which the ministers alone from the three eastern Synods were leading off with a fund of $25,000. Mr. Appel pointed out the need of following up this beginning by an advance all along the line. Negotiations were reported looking to a union of the Ursinus School of Theology with the Eastern Seminary at Lancaster. Dr. Irvine addressed the Synod on Wednesday, telling of continued growth and expansion of the academy. In contrast with 13 years ago when he took up the work and the present, he showed the following contrasts: Then, four acres of land and three buildings, now 120 acres and 10 buildings; then 78 boys, now 360; then a faculty of four, now 25; then an income of $9,000, now $136,000. On Friday afternoon the Synod paid a visit in a body to Mercersburg, and with impressive ceremonies dedicated Laucks Hall.

President Joseph H. Apple told an interesting story of steady and encouraging progress at the Woman's College ever since it was started 13 years ago.

Dr. Geo. A. Snyder told of the work at Catawba College, Newton, N. C., and the progress made in raising the endowment; and Prof. Benchoff drew a hopeful picture of the young state of the Synod's schools, Massanutten Academy in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley.

The Orphanages of the church were represented by Supt. W. F. More, of the Bethany Home, Womelsdorf; Supt. D. H. Leader, St. Paul's Home, whose buildings and grounds at Butler have recently been sold with a view to move the home to a better locality; Rev. Dr. I. M. L. Lyerly, superintendent of a home in Crescent, N. C.

The officers of the Publication Board, general manager, Rev. A. S. Bromer, and editor, Rev. C. J. Musser, D. D., told of a brighter, better year than the preceding, and still further progress they hoped to make if supported by the church. Rev. Dr. R. W. Miller, secretary of the S. S. Board, represented these important interests on the floor of the Synod. Rev. Dr. D. E. Schoedler told of the new and important work which he superintends, the Phoebe Deaconess Home of Allentown, Pa.

The Synod will meet next year in "the President's church," as it is called, Washington, D. C., October 15, 1907. A. T. G. A.

HARMFUL STOMACH DOSING

No Need of It When Hyomei Is Used to Cure Catarrh.

Do not try to cure catarrh of the head by dosing the stomach. This is neither common sense nor scientific, as the less medicine one swallows the better.

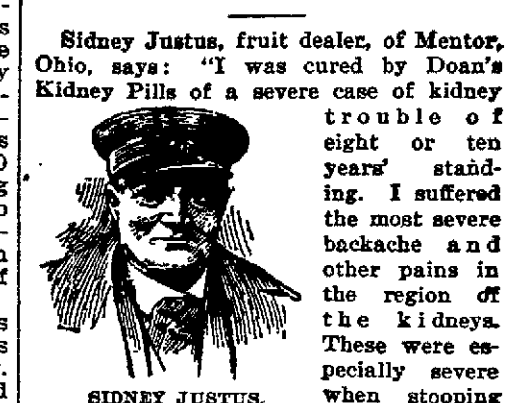

To cure catarrhal troubles, breathe the healing Hyomei and the medication will go right to the spot where the catarrhal germs are present, and free the system from all catarrhal poison.

F. W. Jordan has seen so many cures of catarrh made by Hyomei, some of them chronic cases, that he gives an absolute guarantee of cure or money will be refunded with every outfit he sells. The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1, while extra bottles of Hyomei if needed are but 50 cents.

Cured of a Terrible Case After Ten Years of Suffering.

When suffering daily torture
From backache, rheumatic pain,
Any ill of kidneys or bladder,
Turn to Doan's Kidney Pills.
A cure endorsed by thousands.
Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of a few years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Justus will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

The Knock-out Blow.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it helps to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Adviser will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are a Republican or Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-Week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

THE THIRCE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and The Gazette together for one year for $2.20.

GANG BEGS TO PROBE

Wouldn't Trust It to "Farmer" Cressy and Anti-Machine Legislature.

Very appropriately the "Republican" candidate for Auditor General, Robert K. Young, hurried down from Greensburg to the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia, to collaborate with the badly scared "advisers" of Penrose and Wesley R. Andrews, upon an "address" begging the public not to defeat Young and Stuart or their colleagues on the ticket on account of the State Capitol disclosures made by the man whom Governor Pennypacker, speaking to Auditor General Snyder, contemptuously called "that babbler" (Berry). As Young was from first to last the solicitor paid by the state to keep the Capitol Commission from going wrong, he must have either known all about the craft or been such an unobservant and unsophisticated "Solicitor" as to be as unfitted for that place as he has proved himself to be for the Auditor Generalship.

But the Penrose-Andrews annex masquerading as the "State Advisory Committee" evidently considered that Young ought to know more than any of them about the plundering, and, therefore, they called him into the conference which drew up the "statement" to the public, asking that no credence be placed in that man, Berry.

Although every well informed citizen in the state knows that the capitol graft is second to nothing among the issues agitating the commonwealth, the "advisory" statement alleges that "Emery and his colleagues are turning away from the real issue of the state campaign." Roosevelt is declared to be the issue, although the President would have excused himself from attending the "dedication" of the capitol if he had received the invitation after Berry began to lift the lid. As it was, Roosevelt, in his speech, did not even mention the capitol or make the slightest reference to its existence. The President skipped everything in Pennsylvania affairs from the rise of Quay down to the present moment except the extra session of the legislature.

The assinine "advisers" go on to say that the anti-machine men "cannot make the capitol an issue." The "advisers" admit, however, that any public robbers found out must be punished, but they don't want to entrust the punishing to Emery, or to have the investigating done by an anti-machine legislature, backed up by "Farmer" Cressy as Auditor General. The "statement," in view of the fact that it would be impossible to have a court's disposal of the graft cases in advance of the election, makes the perfectly safe challenge to Berry that he shall haul the offenders into either the civil or criminal courts, or both. The trouble with the "advisers" is the fear that the cases may be prepared for the courts by honest and fearless officials in Harrisburg after the legislature gets down to all the recipients of the loot.

SURE TO CURE INDIGESTION

Unless Pepsikola Cures Your Dyspepsia Ed. D. Heckerman Will Pay Back the Money.

It is not often that Mr. Heckerman backs up a new remedy with his own personal guarantee but he knows that Pepsikola is sure to help all who have chronic dyspepsia and indigestion the very first day they begin to take it.

Moreover, Mr. Heckerman is too busy and his reputation is worth too much to take chances in recommending a new remedy to his customers that will not do just as represented.

Pepsikola is a remarkable preparation and has performed some cures in Bedford that border upon the miraculous. It is also a grand nerve tonic. It improves the appetite, gives new strength and new energy, tones up the stomach and digestive organs, and makes you feel better right off.

When you buy a package of Pepsikola you are protected in every way. If it cures you the cost is 25 cents—if it does not, Mr. Heckerman will pay back your money without the least argument.

Dairy and Food Commission's Report

The Minnesota Dairy and Food Commission's analysis shows that Kennedy's Laxative Honey and Tar and Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar contained opiates and croton oil. Opiates are poisonous and croton oil is a violent poisonous purgative. Refuse to accept any but Foley's Honey and Tar in a yellow package. Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates or dangerous drugs and is the best cough and cold cure. Ed D. Heckerman.

Barnett's Store

"We would rather make twenty sales at a profit of five cents each, than to make one sale at a profit of one dollar. It requires twenty times as much work to make that dollar, but it brings us in touch with twenty to one more people. As our experience has taught us that a pleased customer is the best advertisement, we are the gainer, because the more pleased people going out of this store, the greater the strength of the advertising force of the public opinion in favor of this store. We make it a specialty to give prompt attention to all your orders, whether you come in person, phone or send the children."

Church Dedicated

The new Messiah Lutheran church was dedicated to the worship of Almighty God last Sunday. The services were in charge of the pastor, assisted by Rev. J. H. Zinn. About $1,500 was needed to dedicate, clear of all debt, but in a very short time it was found that $1,865 had been subscribed. This was a remarkable record. In the evening addresses were made by Revs. Bausman, Zinn and Diehl.

Point

October 30—Jacob C. Smith has built a new house on his farm on Tull's Hill and moved into it last Tuesday. Mr. Smith is now prepared to live comfortably, but age is creeping onto him very fast and it soon will be time to stop work and take times easy.

Dr. S. H. Gump has a long row of small locust trees planted on his property along the public road leading to Mann's Choice, which he keeps trimmed up nicely. They are growing up straight and tall and in a few years will be worth money. The same plan has been in use in Cumberland and Adams counties for years and now the farmers have plenty of locust for posts. Why not follow this example?

Francis Perdew of Fairhope, Somerset county, has spent the past week with his parents.

Friday night Peter Shaffer's summer-house and everything in it was burned. They had all their jarred and canned fruit in the building. The house was the only one on the place for years. His father lived in it for a long time, and then the present owner lived in it until after his father's death, when he moved into the new house built above the road. There was about $100 insurance.

There are a great many people sick with bad colds and coughs in this vicinity.

H. S. McCreary and wife left for Pittsburgh on Saturday, and Shannon Berkheimer on Monday. Both gentlemen are witnesses before the U. S. Court, which is being held there at this time.

Harry Deaner is digging out the foundation for a new house in Spring Hope. It begins to look as if Harry's visits to the community of Fyan mean something in the near future.

Nathan Riseling and wife took a load of produce to Altoona on Friday. They are guests of their son Loren, who lives in Altoona.
